Arcy Manufacturing Co. Named to Prestigious Flexitallic Allied Distributor Program

HOUSTON, September 24, 2013 —Flexitallic, the global leader in specialized sealing products and solutions for the energy industry, today announced that Arcy Manufacturing Company Inc. has been named to its prestigious Flexitallic Allied Distributor Program. The initiative recognizes industry partners from around the world that consistently demonstrate Flexitallic's philosophy of providing high quality products, technical expertise and customer service that elevate customer safety to a new level.

"We've been fortunate to work with Arcy Manufacturing for more than 50 years, developing a true partnership. Its appointment as an Allied Distributor demonstrates our mutual commitment to growing the Flexitallic brand," said Ed Crowley, Northeast/Eastern Seaboard Regional sales manager for Flexitallic L.P. "The company is highly respected, with a loyal customer base that has expanded because of superior customer service with a personal touch. Arcy meets the high standards expected of our Allied Distributors, and we're pleased to welcome them into the program."

Arcy Manufacturing has supplied industrial gaskets and sealing products to the chemical, marine, refinery, water, waste water treatment and related industries since 1934. Based in Carlstadt, N.J., it serves the tri-state area as well as customers' needs across the East Coast.

"After working with Flexitallic for five decades, it's an honor to be named an Allied Distributor," remarked Marc Mattesky, director of business development for Arcy. "This is not only good for our business, but outstanding news for our customers. We expect it will further improve the superior service, outstanding support and product availability for which we've become known."

"Arcy becomes one of just 19 Flexitallic Allied Distributors, the longest running distribution program of its kind in the fluid sealing industry," noted Scott Long, director of Sales and Engineering, Flexitallic L.P. "Every member has to invest significant time and resources to qualify for this prestigious program, in addition to meeting stringent quality and service criteria. We place a high value of maintaining a collaborative relationship with our Allied Distributors, and welcome their incredible commitment to helping advance the Flexitallic brand."
